(3) The Governor of a State or the Administrator of a Union territory having a Legislative Assembly may, where he is of opinion that it is necessary in the public interest so to do, request the Comptroller and Auditor-General to audit the accounts of a corporation established by law made by the Legislature of the State or of the Union territory, as the case may be, and where such request has been made, the Comptroller and Auditor-General shall audit the accounts of such corporation and shall have, for the purposes of such audit, right of access to the books and accounts of such corporation:

Provided that no such request shall be made except after consultation with the Comptroller and Auditor-General and except after giving reasonable opportunity to the corporation to make representations with regard to the proposal for such audit.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Administrative Reforms Commission was required to consider, among other matters, problems of redress of citizens' grievances, keeping in mind the need for ensuring the highest standards of efficiency and Integrity in the public services, and also for making public administration responsive to the people. More specifically, the Commission was expected to examine:

- (i) the adequacy of the existing arrangements for the redress of grievances; and
- (ii) the need for introduction of any new machinery or special institution for redress of grievances.

Giving priority to this part of its terms of reference, the Commission made an interim report in which it took note of the oft-expressed public outcry against the prevalence of corruption, the existence of widespread inefficiency and the unresponsiveness of administration to popular needs. It felt that the answer to this lay in the provision of a machinery which would examine public complaints and sift the genuine from the false or the untenable so that the administration's failures and achievements could be publicly viewed in their correct perspective. Such an institution was regarded necessary even from the point of view of affording protection to the services. The Commission, therefore, recommended that there should be a statutory machinery to enquire into complaints alleging corruption or injustice arising out of maladministration.

2. The Bill seeks to give effect to the recommendations of the Administrative Reforms Commission, in so far as they relate to matters within the purview of the Union Government- Except for modifications of a formal nature, the Bill is identical with the Lokpal and Lokayuktas Bill, 1969, which was passed by the Fourth Lok Sabha on the 28th August, 1969, and which lapsed on its dissolution. In its scope, the Bill differs from the draft Bill proposed by the Administrative Reforms Commission in two major respects. It does not extend to public servants in the States. Secondly, it does not confine itself to Ministers and Secretaries alone. In other words, the Bill seeks to provide a statutory machinery to inquire into complaints based on actions of all Union public servants, including Ministers.
