2.	Lal Bahadur Shastri Smarak Ayurvedic College, Handia (Allahabad).
3.	Takmil-ul-Tib College, Lucknow.
4.	Unani Medical College, Allahabad.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The standard of instructions imparted in the institutions specified in this Schedule and imparting instruction in Indian Systems of Medicine is not up to the mark. The financial constitution of these institutions is also far from satisfactory. With a view to ensuring facilities for better education and treatment in such system of medicine, it was considered necessary to pro-fincialise the aforesaid institutions.

During the past few years a number of other private institutions imparting instructions Indian System of Medicine have been established. These institutions are greatly deficient in respect of teaching facilities and equipments. Such sub-standard institutions are neither affiliated to any University nor are recognized by the State Government. Not infrequently, complaints are made requesting the State Government for intervening in the affairs of such sub-standard institutios. The unauthorized institutions actually run on commercial lines rather than imparting medical education and, thus, spoil the career of young students by misguiding them. It is, therefore, considered necessary for improving the standard of education in Indian Systems of Medicine, impose a ban on mushroom growth of such unauthorized sub-standard institutions. It is so considered necessary to regulate the establishment, maintenance and management of every institution imparting instructions in Naturopathy and Yoga Therapy.

The Uttar Pradesh Indian Medical Institutions (Acquisition and Miscellaneous Provisions) bill 1982, is introduced accordingly.
